Amuseum Student Art Prize 2020 is an initiative by Amuseum ArtScience, a new age experimental platform registered as a Trust that aspires to bring together the concepts of both art and science on a single platform in order to see the world more holistically. As a part of the emerging concept of 'ArtScience' all over the world, Amuseum ArtScience has initiated this Student Art Prize 2020 in order to engage the school children with the ideas of art and science through the medium of art. The world has been going through a pandemic and 'lockdown' and 'quarantine' have become household words and concepts. As fast adapters of emerging tendencies and trends, children too have adjusted themselves with the new situation while engaging with the world through various mediums of which internet enabled digital platforms play a major role. It is not that they have not been doing anything in real time and in real space. Their offline activities have resulted into art, journal entries, poems, short stories, photography and even short films. Amuseum Student Art Prize 2020 is an attempt to see what the children of the world have been doing during the last seven months mostly 'locked up inside homes'.

All School Students could participate in this mega art festival by sending in the digital/-photographic images of their creative works such as paintings, drawings, collages and sculptures for the Amuseum Student Art Prize 2020.
